Hear my prayer

I stare at the stars
The sounds from afar
Like the lights
The urging despair
Somewhere

Ye, I'm aware
There's no one there
To whom I can direct
My prayer

Still, hear my prayer
Oh please, show me where
Paradise lies

Hand me a fare
To climb all the stairs
To die in the glare
Of Your Eyes

And help me to bear
When I'm totally bare
All the pains
Waiting carefully for me
I'm in Your care

Help me to dare
To stay fully aware
When the volcano bursts
Into the air

Beyond my trial
Will I ever melt
Beyond my denial
Can love be felt
Love, true love
Can we love
The Truth

Let me beware

Of my fearful lies
Teach me to share
My world behind

My requests are rare
I rather tear
The last of my hair – out

Still, hear my prayer
Oh please, show me where
Paradise lies

I guess it is fair
I've to learn that nowhere
Else but in myself
There's Home

Now I declare
And I scream it in the air
For me the time arrived
To be aware

I will let you bear
My deep hidden flare
I'll let you see the snare
Of being unaware

Hereby I fully declare
And it feels like freeing me
For me the time is there
To be aware

More and more aware
That I am everywhere
This 'I' to whom I direct
My prayer

Then I will had the fares
To climb all the stairs
To die in the glare
Of Your Eyes
Your Light
My light
